

Financial Times for Education - University of Alberta

About the Financial Times

The FT is read daily by business executives, politicians, and academics worldwide. The FT covers various topics, including management, finance, the legal industry, politics, climate change, and economics, all from a global perspective.

How can professors and students set up accounts?

Users can visit ft.com/universityofalberta to register for an account. Enter your university email address and follow the prompts. User credentials can be used remotely and for access to apps.

For teaching/learning:

- Intro to FT.com videos, including how to do a search and how to create reading lists
- Case studies, Business Education News, and Business and Economics Guides
- Highlight article text to save for later use. Find your highlighted articles in myFT
- The annual Responsible Business Education report and awards

For career development:

- Working It newsletter and podcast, about succeeding in the modern workplace
- MBA 101, a 6-part newsletter guide to applying to business school
- The annual Women at the Start report (helpful for anyone starting their career!)
- The Working It newsletter and podcast cover relevant workplace topics

Popular with everyone!

- The FT App (all articles have an audio option!), a digital epaper app, the online digital newspaper (can be translated into 25 languages)
- FT Newsletters, such as FirstFT, Moral Money (on ESG), or Chris Giles on Central Banks
- Social media (Instagram, X, LinkedIn, YouTube)
- Podcasts, such as the FT News Briefing, Behind the Money, and Unhedged (on markets)
- The Lunch with the FT column, FT Book Reviews (all genres!), and the FT Climate Graphic Explained

Looking for something else?

Email higher.education@ft.com for a free, personalized consultation.

Do you have customer support?

Yes - contact them at customer.support@ft.com